Elk Point in the computer age — Chamber AGM

Just what are BAIS and ABCInfo? What is the Internet all about?

These questions will be answered at the Elk Point Chamber of Commerce Annual Meeting on Wednesday, February 7, when Walter daSilva sets up his computer and gives those in attendance a first-hand look at these interesting systems.

daSilva will explain the uses of the Business Attraction Information System and the Access to Business and Community Information System, and will then access the Internet for a brief demonstration.

daSilva, the Northeast Regional Manager for Economic Development and Tourism, based in St. Paul, has a background in banking and in private business.

The Annual Meeting starts with dinner at 6:30 p.m. in the Empress Banquet Room, with the Annual Meeting and guest speaker to follow. Plan now to attend.

Town, County join in cooperative ventures

The councils of the Town of Elk Point and the County of St. Paul met last week and discussed a number of ways in which they can cooperate for the benefit of residents of both jurisdictions.

The Town and County's joint Ambulance Commission will be working on a plan to help Elk Point and District Ambulance. Owner Fred Lambright has indicated that he needs a three year contract, rather than the current one year agreement, in order to obtain financing for a new ambulance. The Town had questioned the advisability of entering into a three year contract when the provincial government might decide to take over ambulance operation. However, this is now felt to be unlikely when so many services are becoming the responsibility of municipalities.

The extra cost faced by county residents when purchasing an Elk Point Public Library card was also addressed. The County, which does not belong to the Northern Lights Library System, would like the fee for their residents to be equal to that for those living in town, and have suggested giving the library a lump sum from which the NLLS fees for these patrons could be paid in addition to the regular library grant.

Reeve Ray Danyluk declined an offer from Mayor Ed Buck to turn over the Elk Point Airport to the County when it becomes property of the Town later this year, however he does feel the airport serves a useful purpose to both municipalities and should be maintained. The operating costs for the facility are shared by the Town and County, and will increase when the Department of Transportation relinquishes their portion of the operation. It was noted that in addition to the oil companies, the facility is used by STARS Air Ambulance to transport accident victims to Edmonton.

Elk Point Volunteer Fire Department has cost the County $24,000 for their share of expenses over the past year, with 20 of the calls answered by the department coming from outside town limits. Virtually all of the 27 firefighters live in town, and it was suggested that rural residents may be unaware that they may join the department. In fact, some county residents may be unaware that the County owns their own fire truck. Deputy Mayor Bill Schuhmacher, a member of the Fire Department for many years, said it "would be nice if County people would come to training sessions and learn to fight fires" so they would be available to help when a fire occurs in their area.

The possibility of obtaining a 911 emergency number was discussed. The County is giving serious consideration to this move, which would cost each telephone customer in the municipality 81¢ per month. Of this amount, 37¢ goes to AGT, 37¢ to the operating agency, and 7¢ to the municipality for administration. This price is controlled by the CRTC and could go down if the whole province gets involved. "We are going to discuss this at our next Council meeting," Danyluk said. "We feel it would be good for our residents." The Town is also considering hooking into a 911 system.

In a change of pace from recent years, neither municipality had any problems regarding the sanitary landfill south of Elk Point to report.

Winter Games gold and silver for Elk Point residents

Elk Point and district residents of all ages had a good showing at the Northeastern Alberta Winter Games in Lac La Biche, January 19-21.

Bringing home the gold in the Seniors Military Whist were Gwen Nelson, Pearl Slywka, Lena Stepa and Bernice Bykowsky, whose team collected 27 flags. Two Hills won the silver and Vilna the bronze medals in this event.

Junior participant Charise Kinneberg won the silver medal in the Junior Archery competition. Charise, who shoots a compound bow, also placed third in overall points, edging out more than thirty other girls and boys in the event. She is a member of the St. Paul and area Knoc Hunters group. She will know by February 9 if she will be going on to Provincial competition in Lethbridge later in the month.

The Elk Point Pacers men's basketball team also brought home silver from the Winter Games.

Congratulations!

Boorse returned as Rural Crime Watch president at 1996 Annual General Meeting

David Boorse was re-elected as president of the Greater Lakeland Rural Crime Watch at that organization's 1996 annual meeting last week in St. Paul. Steve Kohl was elected vice-president, while Yvonne Petruk will again take the office of treasurer. A secretary is to be appointed by the executive.

Attendance at this year's annual meeting was less than half of last year's, no doubt due to the extremely cold weather. Those in attendance heard annual reports from the president, liaison members from the St. Paul and Elk Point RCMP detachments, and Fish and Wildlife.

Boorse reported that the Rural Crime Watch float attended three parades last summer, and hope to take in even more this year. Search and rescue training has been started and should prove very helpful. Boorse has been part of the provincial RCW board since last February, and said that organization "had a lot of growing pains" as it set up its charter and determined its goals. It consists of representatives of approximately 75 associations throughout Alberta, as well as various honorary members from farm organizations. It has been time consuming and "quite a challenge" to be involved at the provincial board level, but "I learned a lot."

Staff Sergeant Kees Kikkert thanked RCW for their donation toward a night scope, which is used for surveillance, and reported on behalf of St. Paul RCMP's liaison member, Orest Torsky, on the past year's efforts. The RCW computer was used 20 times for fan-out alerts, up from a mere 6 times the previous year. Among rural crimes broadcast this year were telemarketing schemes, a missing person, the theft of equipment from Boscome Hall, and grain theft. Kikkert announced that Torsky is leaving St. Paul to take a training post, and will be replaced by Cst. Lee Martinson. "Rural Crime Watch is only as strong as the members make it," Kikkert said. "We need your help."

Cst. Dave Kilby of Elk Point RCMP said Elk Point's use of the computer fan-out had "started out gung ho," revamping the list to include members in the adjacent Zone 10 area. "We sent out messages left and right, until the computer crashed." Further computer problems ensued, and now Elk Point is faxing messages to St. Paul, who are sending them out with their computer. Elk Point's Canada Day parade was the first for the RCW float, which Kilby said "looked very impressive." A number of members in Zone 12 were involved in the search and rescue program, and Kilby is looking into the prices of a personal guidance system for use in searches.

Fish and Wildlife's Wayne Brown said 1995 was "an interesting year. It was the first time we had been involved in public relations via a float, and we got a lot of good feedback." This was also the first year he had utilized the fan-out system for serious matters, and in one case of poaching "it was really successful... it provided the 'who.'" It was also used to spread information and received many calls in response to notification about fish traffickers. Brown said he is one of very few Fish and Wildlife officers to use a fan-out system, and is currently writing an article on Rural Crime Watch and the fan-out system for Fish and Wildlife's magazine. He announced a public meeting regarding hunting seasons, slated for February 8, 7:30 p.m. at the Elks Hall in St. Paul.

Guest speaker for the evening was O.C. Steve Duncan, who commended Rural Crime Watch for their efforts and called them "the cornerstone of community policing. Community policing dates back many years, but in recent times 'we have relied way too much on technology rather than the human aspect. In the past five years, there has been a move back to community based policing, which he described as "a partnership between the police and the community to detect and solve crimes" while keeping in mind the social needs and problems of the community. "It's more than a philosophy, it's a mindset."

LET ME SHOW YOU AROUND LEADVILLE

"Let me show you around our town. Leadville is a new town and the folks at the mine who developed it are really proud of it. The houses are all new. The streets are paved and the town hall is a show place."

"But something's not right here. The place doesn't seem very friendly," remarked the visitor.

"Yeah, well, the men work shifts and the women mainly look after the kids. Not many jobs for them here. They tried to set up some kind of centre where they could go and have meetings, but they couldn't find any place to meet. The school principal says the school is just for teaching kids. The priest and other ministers won't let anyone use space in their church, especially not for anything that isn't part of church activities. We don't have a hospital here. Folks have to be flown out if they get sick or are having a baby. Entertainment? Well, we have a hockey rink and a movie theatre. That's about it. The police here are pretty tough. They have to be. When the miners get to drinking after pay day, they get pretty mean. Some of them get mean with their wives and kids too. But the women, they have to just take it. There's no place for them to go... unless they want to walk a hundred miles to the next town... Yeah, come to think about it... this isn't a very friendly place."

Two kinds of factors contribute to family violence at the societal level. One is the distribution of resources and the other is the attitudes that are present in society.

Uneven distribution of resources: A grossly uneven distribution of resources in any society forces some families to have insufficient means to meet the needs of their members. This causes considerable stress which contributes to the use of violence. As well, it keeps some family members trapped in abusive situations because of the absence of alternatives open to them.

Societal attitudes: Any attitude that condones the use of force as a legitimate means of controlling people, of settling disputes or of winning in competitive situations contributes to family violence in both direct and indirect ways. The communication of such attitudes by way of television and movies, in particular, profoundly influences people who are inclined to use violence to get their way.

Any attitude that devalues certain members of society because of their gender or age contributes to the devaluing of those people within families.

The Chamber needs YOU!

We seem to run into this problem every year about this time: the Chamber needs a new executive and no one is interested in putting their names forward.

Could it be that meetings take place when owners feel they cannot leave their businesses? Meeting times can be changed, if the new executive decides to do so.

Could it be that people fear how much time would have to be dedicated to the positions? Two meetings a month, of an hour each, don't add up to a lot of time, and could be cut back to one meeting a month, if that's what people want.

The Chamber, ideally, is representatives of the businesses joining together to make decisions and plans to improve and enhance the business community. It can be whatever they want it to be. They just have to get involved and see that what they want to happen, does just that. The Chamber's Annual Meeting is next Wednesday, February 7, at 6:30 p.m. Please get involved.

Extreme cold stalls exam writers

By Fiona Daniels

Heinsburg Student Journalist

On January 18, Grade 12 students from all over Alberta were faced with the same problem. Part A English 30 and 33 exams were scheduled for this day but because of temperatures dipping down to almost 50 below, buses did not run and schools were closed in many areas. In some places, students were asked to make an extra effort to come to school but other schools cancelled the exams that count as 50% of a student's final mark.

Approximately 800 English 30 and 500 English 33 students did not write the mandatory final exam. Those 1300 students who did not make it to school will be exempt from the test and 75% of their mark from throughout the year will be used, as well as 25 % of their mark from Part B of the diploma exam to determine the final mark that the students will receive.

The reason that this decision is so upsetting to many of the students who did make their way to school is that they believe that the students who were exempt from the test will end up with a better final mark, causing colleges and universities to consider their applications before those students who made the effort to get to school and write the important exam.

Alberta Education could have handled the problem in many different ways to ensure fairness to all students. Instead of giving those students who were exempt an unfair advantage, they could have made a new test to be written the following week or could have had the students write the diploma exam at the end of June when the other Part A and B diploma exams for English 30 and 33 will be written.

"It's kind of upsetting that this is happening. Maybe after this year, Alberta Education will be better prepared for something unexpected like school closures and give everybody a decent chance," commented one English 30 student about the problems.

F. G. Miller starts the New Year

By Kelly Oszust

F. G. Miller Student Journalist

Well, it's back to school for F. G. Miller students. Personally, I think everyone could have used one more week of holidays.

The New Year started out with a victory for the Senior High boys basketball team. They played on Wednesday, January 10 against Mallaig. The results were astounding and in the words of one Crusaders fan, "They totally annihilated Mallaig, with a finishing score of 104-37." As well, the senior high girls basketball team won their game with incredible results. They finished with a score of 67-36.

"A challenging and rewarding year," but membership and circulation decline

Elk Point Public Library Board chairperson Andrew Ross reported at last week's annual general meeting that 1995 was a "challenging and rewarding year" during which the library received "tons of new books" and continued its process of becoming "a wonderful information source for the people of Elk Point."

However, those people are not using the facility to its capacity. The library's annual report shows that the decline in membership which started in 1993 has continued through 1995, with a total of only 492 registrants. Rural membership is down to 17% of the total, from 31% in 1994 and 42.5% in 1993.

Circulation dropped 15% last year, with a total of 15,887 items borrowed, compared to 18,668 in 1994. Much of the decline came from the children's section, which saw 34% less items borrowed than the previous year.

Nutrition Notes

The lowdown on fats

By Shelley Miller-Hertes

Registered Dietician

Elk Point Health Centre

You have probably heard of many different types of fat, polyunsaturated, monounsaturated, saturated, trans fatty acids, etc. Confused? You are not alone! Here are some definitions of different fats. But remember the main goal is to reduce your intake of all types of fat.

Polyunsaturated fats are found in vegetable oils, such as safflower, sunflower, corn and soybean oils. They also contain omega-3 fatty acids.

Monounsaturated fats are found primarily in canola and olive oils.

Saturated fats are found in animal products such as meat, butter, dairy products, and some processed foods. They are usually solid at room temperature.

Trans fatty acids are found in many processed foods that contain partially hydrogenated fats (eg. margarine, cookies, crackers, french fries and potato chips).

While one should reduce all fat sources in the diet, it is better to choose oils with the highest levels of polyunsaturated and monounsaturated fats, and cut back on those with high levels of saturated fat. Watch out for hydrogenated fats, which change a liquid oil into a more convenient solid type fat (therefor the mono- or polyunsaturated fats become saturated and trans fats).

What's news at the library?

Now in - listings of all the books in four systems

By Michele Ducek
Librarian

There is an exciting new product available at the Elk Point Public Library (well, exciting for me). It is a cd-rom produced by the FOCUS on Resource Sharing Project. This project involved four regional libraries in Alberta including our own, the Northern Lights Library System, in the creation of a union catalogue. This catalogue has the holdings of all the libraries in these four systems. With this cd-rom, I can search the library holdings of the Peace, Parkland and Yellowhead library systems.

Right about now you are thinking: "So Michele has gotten a new technical toy to play with. What does this have to do with me?" People who come to the library looking for a specific book or books on a certain subject already know that if it wasn't in the card catalog, I would look in our catalog on the computer. If it wasn't listed there, I would look in the catalog listing the holdings of all the libraries within the Northern Lights Library System. In many cases, we would find what we were looking for and request the book from a library within the system. Usually we would receive the book in less than a week.

With the FOCUS cd, if the book isn't in the union catalog, we can search the holdings of three other library systems. If the item is found, a request form can be printed out which lists all the pertinent information about the item including which libraries have it. This form is then sent to Lloydminster. This saves the Lloydminster library, which processes our interlibrary loans, some work so that requests can be dealt with more quickly and hopefully result in faster interlibrary loan service.

This first release is going only to libraries within participating systems and only library staff will be searching but in the future it is possible that the public will be able to use it. For now, you can see this new cd in action at the Elk Point Public Library. (P.S. The combinations of screen colors are neat, too.)

Last year, Manitoba writer Carol Shields was the biggest news in the literary world. Her novel, The Stone Diaries, won the Governor General's Award, the Pulitzer Prize and was shortlisted for the Booker Prize. It tells the story of Daisy Goodwill's life from childhood through marriage, widowhood, remarriage, motherhood and old age. We have just received a copy of this highly acclaimed book so come in and see what all the fuss was about.

Challenging year for library in 1995

The library acquired almost 900 new books last year, and has a total of 20,666 items on hand to be borrowed.

CARD OF THANKS

TEREPOSKY, Florence (Terry)

The family of Terry Tereposky would like to take this opportunity to thank some very special people: Dr. Ramful and the Nursing Staff at the Elk Point Health Centre, the Palliative Home Care Group, Olga Melnyk (Terry's best friend) and the good people of Elk Point, Reverend Norman Hartley, Yewchin's Funeral Chapel and the Pioneer Circle. Your generosity, kindness and consideration towards our mother did not go unnoticed. Our mother is now at peace and the suffering is over. Thank you again for making her last days as comfortable as possible. We will never forget you.

The library board is currently down to four members, due to resignations and terms coming to an end, and is looking for interested volunteers to join their ranks.

Librarian Michele Ducek reported on a busy year. Automation of the library is proceeding slowly but carefully. Margaret McGregor moved to Saskatoon last summer, and was replaced for the summer months by Judy Kim, and by Carlen Mutch in November. Jaylene Purdy celebrated a year of service at the library. Volunteers Lena Stepa, Anna May Warren and Doreen Mayner continue to be of great help in the library. A total of 732.75 volunteer hours were recorded in 1995.

The library operated within their budget, even though no donation drive was pursued.

Thunder competes in Lloydminster tourney

Thunder competed in the Lloydminster annual Midget "A" and "AA" Tournament this past weekend.

Friday night the Thunder took on a team from Macklin, SK, finding themselves down by 2 goals in the first period, before rugged right winger Jordan Bassett scored on a nice pass from Brad Pankiw. Derek Cusack tied the game, with Chris Berlinguette made the score 3-2 with a high slap shot. Macklin scored the next 3 goals to make the score 5-3, but with 2:04 remaining in the game Neil Kozicky scored on a point shot. With only 38 seconds left, Loren Kozicky, in his first game since breaking his foot, scored the tying goal, making it 5-5.

Saturday morning Thunder took on the "AA" team from Stony Plain. Early in the first period, Thunder took the lead on Loren Kozicky's goal, but Stony Plain tied it up a minute later. In the second, Derek Cusack again put Thunder in the lead, before another tying goal. Jeff Hughes gave Thunder the lead again, but Stony Plain tied it again before the end of 40 minutes and scored the only third period goal to win 5-4.

Saturday night Thunder played a one-sided game against Saddle Lake Warriors, winning 15-1.

Thunder was sporting their new jerseys for the tournament, thanks to Shamrock Valley Enterprises for their sponsorship and support.

Thunder is home to Lloydminster on Friday night at 8:15 p.m., and on the road to Vermilion to meet the Tigers on Sunday.

Date set for Egg Race

By Dee Pankiw

Elk Point Thunder

Sunday, February 11 has been set as the day the Great Canadian Egg Race will be run at the A. G. Ross Arena. This event, hosted by Midget Thunder is being held to raise money for the A. G. Ross Operating Committee. It should prove to be fun for the whole family.

The fun will begin with an Atom hockey game at 2:00 p.m. During the game, the 12-years-old-and-under set will be making paper airplanes from paper supplied by Midget Thunder. During the breaks between periods, these youngsters will compete to see whose construction can fly the farthest. The final airplane race will be held at the end of the Atom game.

Midget Thunder hits the ice at 5:00 p.m. in a league game against Grand Centre. During the intermissions, the junior and senior egg races will take place. To enter, a team must design and construct a vehicle which, under the power of one rubber band, is capable of carrying a raw egg as far as possible across an ice surface without breaking the egg. The contraption that goes the furthest in the senior event wins a trophy and a major prize, while junior contestants will vie for a portion of the junior entry fees plus a number of prizes.

Fans, too, will be eligible for prizes, in a shoot-to-win, or by putting a bet on their favorite eggmobile. These machines will be on display throughout the afternoon, and speculators can buy stock on their favorites. Shareholders in the winning machine will be eligible for a draw for half the investments.

So far, quite an interest has been shown in the senior event. To date, we have seven teams, with the promise of several more. Each of these teams has promised to donate $100 to the Operating Committee in return for an opportunity to display their design prowess. We have not heard from the 18 and under crew, whose entry fee is only $10. Entries are asked to call 724-2722 or leave a message at 724-2250. Midget Thunder will make sure that you receive a copy of the rules, an entry form and a rubber band to practice with. At the arena on February 11, you will be issued a new rubber band and an unblemished Grade A medium egg to install in your machine.
